

by

The players appeared in the match at Adelaide where it all kicked off eighty years ago this week <http://www.espnricinfo.com/bodyline/engine/match/62608.html>.

Across

1 Man in sunhat, strangely warm (between you and me), caused 19th century trade disputes (3,5,4)

10 Naval formations represented as drama (7)

11 Some crude ads easily become something very salty (4,3)

12 Old Greek money found in aid to Bolivia (5)

13 Australian player forbidding setter to train, initially (8)

15 Fictional polyglot turned into titled lord (2,8)

16 Accounts book with the covers torn off gives an advantage (4)

18 England player troubled by seam (4)

20 Secret black transport for the wealthy (7,3)

22 Was one of Duncan Fletcher's useful lessons learned initially from captain? (8)

24 The French capture Jason's ship, discarding nothing big (5)

26 Australian player erotically cavorts once cat is put out (7)

27 Anomalous data point possibly stumped one staying in bed? (7)

28 Land line stops salesmen coming back around for old warrior (5,7)

Down

2 Rounds seen finally in high definition by England player (7)

3 Australian player's former area of study (8)

4 Take infusion regularly in that case (2,2)

5 Loner moved around to song by Bowie (or Gabriel) (6,4)

6 Frighten as an empty room might? (5)

7 Second American priest to finish and impose a moratorium (7)

8 Old World diarrhoea terrible (though not dire) for England player (6,7)

9 Get her to fly as worryingly controversial tactic (4,3,6)

14 Buffy perhaps carries canvas for Bradman? (4,6)

17 Good man I permitted to get knife (8)

19 The Spanish need a ring for every second pair running off together? (7)

21 Captain Austen possibly crossing road with setter (7)

23 Treacherous area has lichenous borders with iron fencing (5)

25 Insect huge when shortened by a millimetre (4)